

Academic Minors

Students at FIT have the opportunity to pursue an academic minor, a selection of courses focused on a particular discipline or a combination of disciplines. This provides a more cohesive program of study and a deeper understanding of the chosen fields. These courses may also fulfill some of the major's liberal arts requirements, and students often do not need to exceed their regular course load to pursue a minor or concentration. Upon successful completion of the selected courses in a minor with a 2.0 or higher GPA, the minor is recorded on the student's transcript. There are a wide range of options, including Asian Studies, Communications, Dance and Performing Arts, Economics, English: Literature and/or Writing, Fashion Studies, Film and Media Studies, French, History, History of Art, International Politics, Italian, Japanese, Ethics and Sustainability, Creative Technology, Latin American Studies, Mathematics, Psychology, Spanish, and Sociology.

For information about Liberal Arts minors, visit fitnyc.edu/liberalarts

For information about Art and Design minors, visit fitnyc.edu/creativetechnology

For information about Interdisciplinary minors, visit fitnyc.edu/interdisciplinary

Students should contact the Academic Advisement Center, fitnyc.edu/academicadvisement, to select and schedule a minor along with their major.